

What's New for 2009-2010

Universal Search: Find the most relevant content from all of KET EncycloMedia's services more efficiently with our new search function that now automatically returns more refined results each time you conduct a search.

More Search Options: Narrow search results to a single service, media type, or grade level, without having to use the Advanced Search function. Simply click in the Search box, enter your keyword, select your filters and click the search button.

Grid View Search Results: Find the best content more easily. Search results have been redesigned to provide a quick view of titles that match your search. Hover your mouse over the video to enable a rollover feature that lets you learn more about the video before you click through to view the content. Hover over the segments link on full videos to view a list of segments from the title. If you prefer the original view, just click the List View button.

New Sort Options: In addition to the default Best Match search return, you can now sort search results by Most Popular and Recently Added. Most Popular orders search results to show the most viewed and best rated content first. Recently Added sorts the search results so that the content that is newest to KET EncycloMedia is shown first. Note: Recently Added does not necessarily relate to copyright date.

New Search Filter Options: You can now filter search results to reflect whether a video has a Teacher's Guide or Blackline Masters, Closed Captioning capabilities, or the associated permissions to be Editable by teachers and students. You no longer need to go to Advanced Search. Simply perform the search from the main keyword search box and filter results using the menu on the left side of the screen.

Series Relationship: Ever view a video that was so popular among your students that you wanted to know if there were more like it within your KET EncycloMedia service? Now you can. If a video is a part of a series, a More in this Series tab will appear on the page where you play your video. Simply click the tab and peruse the other titles in the series.

One Set of Builders for all the Services: The Assignment, Quiz, and Writing Prompt Builders have been enhanced and are now global across products. You can now add content from any or all of your KET EncycloMedia services and even other Web 2.0 tools you may be using to a single Assignment, Quiz, or Writing Prompt. As with My Content, the Builders are now accessible through a header link found on every page within the site.

Global My Content: Your My Content, School Content, and District Content sections have been enhanced and are now global across products. This means that you can add and access content from any of your KET EncycloMedia services through a single My Content interface. In addition, My Content is now accessible through a header link found on every page within the site.

My Content Trash Bin: Accidentally delete content from your My Content, School Content, or District Content sections? Simply go to the new Trash Bin to restore the deleted content.

Global Classroom Manager: You can now create classes of students and then assign videos, clips, Assignments, and other items to an entire class or individual students. Videos and other content can even be assigned directly from the player page. Students can then log into Student Center and access all of their assigned materials. Get your students engaged with online assignments, or provide them materials for a multimedia project!

1. Start by creating a class.
2. Use the Builder Tools to create an assignment and assign to individual class, multiple students or entire class. Or locate your materials My Content and assign from there.
3. View results by class/student or edit assignment details by selecting "View Assignments/Results"

Enhanced Student Access: Schools now have the option to provide their students access to student-appropriate content within KET EncycloMedia. Using school-assigned usernames and passwords, students can now view content, as well as access videos, assignments, and other content assigned by their teachers. Students can even download content for use in their multimedia projects. Administrators can control the video content students can access using the content blocking tool on the KET EncycloMedia Admin. site.

My DE for Admins: Administrators now have their own customized My DE page which includes one-click access to building passcodes and usage reports, as well as a section highlighting recent additions to KET EncycloMedia services.

Updated Asset Detail Page: The KET EncycloMedia asset detail page has been enhanced based on customer feedback. Changes include:

- Upgraded play 'button' : There are now two easy options to play a video or segment. The first is to click anywhere on the gray or blue video area or click on a segment title bar. You can also simply click the large triangular play button found on the video image in the player.

- New download icon: The download icon, formerly a 3.5" floppy disk, has been updated to a more universally identifiable image.

- More Prominent Educator Ratings: Rate your favorite videos to move them up the list in the Most Popular search results sort.

- More to Explore: Like a video or other media asset and wondering what other educators who liked it are using? Take a look at the new More to Explore feature. Located just below the segment listing on the player page, it highlights additional videos or other educational resources that might benefit your students.

- Stream and Download settings: You can now set your download and stream types separately. For example, you can choose to stream videos in Flash, but when you download a video file to your computer, the videos can be saved in another format, such as QuickTime.
- Share: Have you found a powerful asset that you want to share with other educators around the world? Simply click the Share button below the video image and you can now e-mail a link to the video, or add the link to your favorite Web 2.0 site. Want to include a link to the video in your PowerPoint? Just use the new Copy Link (per copyright guidelines, media still requires a valid username and password to obtain access).
